

International Conference on Women as Catalysts for Sustainable Development

75 years ago Ethiraj College for Women had embarked on a remarkable journey of empowering women by providing higher education for girl students. As a culmination of the 75th year celebrations championing gender sensitive policies, our esteemed institution proposes to organize an international conference on Women as catalysts for sustainable development in collaboration with University of Madras and Regional Association for Women's studies. In an attempt to strive towards sustained empowerment, the conference acknowledges, recognizes and addresses the challenges and unique needs of women.